

Experts 'Worried' Over Ban

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (P)—Two former members of the atomic energy commission, Lewis L. Strauss and Dr. Willard F. Libby, expressed misgivings today about the limited nuclear test treaty.

Libby, now professor of chemistry at the University of California in Los Angeles, summed up his view at senate hearings as "a worried, reluctant acquiescence."

Strauss, who headed the AEC from 1954 to 1958, was more critical of the treaty but his comments were kept to an apparent expectation that the treaty was going to be ratified.

He predicted that the Soviets would cheat on the agreement and said the senate should attach two reservations:

1. That nuclear weapons may be used without notice "should any of our allies or any of the free nations be subjected to armed aggression."

2. That there be free use of nuclear power "to construct harbor, canal and other peaceful works, both in the territory or in that of friendly nations asking such projects."

Libby also discussed the possible ratification of the treaty on a project, to study peaceful use of nuclear explosion, in that connection he said without elaboration that nuclear experts "are about ready" now to dig a canal by nuclear blasts.

Libby said that before voting on the treaty the senate should determine whether Soviet possession of a 100-megaton bomb is a "commanding advantage." He said he "worried that we had not fired one and observed the effects which must be awful indeed."

Titan II Test Encourages Scientists

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Aug. 21 (AP)—Military planners and scientists today were encouraged by results of a successful, 5,800-mile test flight of a Titan rocket.

The rocket covered the distance in flawless fashion Wednesday in a flight that had special significance as Project Gemini, the United States' next manned space flight program, is launched by the Titan.

Among those who monitored the test:

Although Titan was declared operational two months ago, this nation's most powerful intercontinental range rocket, the missile has encountered numerous troubles, especially in the second-stage propulsion system. Wednesday's success was the 12th in 21 test flights.

Named spacecraft center officials, primarily Flight Operations Director Chris Kraft, have expressed concern that problems in the stages of the rocket could affect Gemini seriously.

Kraft told newsmen last week that the first-stage engine creates vibrations the length of the rocket, which could prevent the two Gemini astronauts from reading their instrument panels.

He reported the second stage engine was developing only 90 percent of desired thrust, not enough to boost the approximately 17,000-pound capsule into proper orbit.

Officials said the Titan II required its lowest vibration level yet Wednesday and developed full second-stage thrust without a warning to a target in the South Atlantic ocean.

60-MILE-AN-HOUR ROAD is what Alaskans term this section of "highway" leading to Mt. McKinley national park. Compared to some sections of Alaskan and Canadian roads it is good, but drivers from "outside" might consider the 60-mile-an-hour speed somewhat hair-raising on such routes. (Times-News photo)

View of Mt. McKinley Makes Whole Trip on "Alcan" Highway Worth While

By LOWELL DICK (Times-News Staff Writer)

MT. MCKINLEY NATIONAL PARK, Aug. 13—Alaska's "unusual" weather made us a week today, resulting in a truly rare view of Mt. McKinley, high as peak on the coast, without a cloud in the sky.

The few persons to whom we talked in the park all agreed it was rare. The road was clear. It was only the second clear day this summer. It was a beautiful day from start to finish.

Back down the Richardson highway a few miles, an Indian service station attendant reported the first 20 miles of the highway to the park under construction, but "the road was good highway—60 miles an hour."

Never trust an Indian—and never accept at face value an Indian report on any highway. That's just don't know what a good highway is like.

Our arrival at "McKinley" where the trail was waiting for us, coincided with quelling time for the construction crew. At the construction site, we saw the trail to the summit, a trail that is a public campground and a trail to the summit.

At the summit, we were in the "Tangle river," and thought the water was cold. This morning the water was cold, but the air was warm. And a cloud hovered over Tangle like a mile away.

It was a drive of 142 miles to the entrance of the park. The 60-mile-an-hour highway was traveled all the way and in some spots 20 miles an hour was plenty fast.

As early as we started, we weren't the first. The caribou season opened last Saturday and the first 20 miles of the highway is open to hunting. We didn't see a single caribou outside the park, although we did spot a few moose.

The caribou season, by the way, is strictly a meat hunt. The horns are still in velvet and in the words of one guide, "You can still kill the horns in some of them." With round steak costing around $1.50 per pound, it is not hard to see why so many hunters are out.

There are plenty of snow-covered peaks, but the first glimpse of Mt. McKinley comes only about 30 miles from the park. Then it disappears until halfway to the end of the park road.

The park road—about six years old—is an excellent gravel road for the first few miles, but with out-worn narrow to a one-track road—dirt in places—which is wide enough for two cars to pass.

Even so, we found the road better than some of Alaska's bumpy paved highways, although it isn't a 60-mile-an-hour road anywhere. The worst stretch is a short section being "improved" by a work crew.

The view of Mt. McKinley and the rest of the range was worth the whole trip. The white giant lowered something like 17,000 feet over the Wonder lake camp ground with not a single break in the glistering white from a definite snow line all the way to the top. It would be a fine place to spend a week or so.

On the park road, we spotted two giant grizzlies, both 300 or 400 yards away; several moose and numbers of caribou. Several times, caribou found themselves trapped on a mountain grade ahead of the car and ran a half-mile or so down the road in front of the car.

The best they could do with their awkward, rolling gait was 20 miles an hour, but we didn't press them. When one finally belted up the side of the mountain, his tongue was hanging out and his sides were heaving.

One young hunter's car was stuck in the mud, but the misture to collide with the car. We dashed back to administer first aid to the stopping bird. Proper memorial rites are scheduled at the dinner table.

Park traffic couldn't be considered crowded. From the time we entered the park until we left, we counted only 58 cars. That includes two hundred of night-seeers from the McKinley park hotel, where they presumably arrived by rail, and any other employees who happened to be traveling the road. That's not much traffic for 82 miles of road.

PUBLIC DANCE SATURDAY NIGHT BAIRDITORIUM 1021 Blue Lakes No. 11

MUSIC BY THE RHYTHMAIRES

Actually, the park road continues through the park and on to an abandoned mining town. We figured nothing would be worth seeing after Mt. McKinley. Besides, the road continued only eight miles beyond Wonder lake.

It was a long day with 440 miles of driving (no trailers) plus lightening and picture taking, but by far the most memorable. The scenery is tremendous.

OAKLEY, Aug. 22—Fire caused by gasoline being spilled on the manifold of a grain combine caused about an acre of wheat to be burned at the Merrill Warr ranch Tuesday afternoon.

The wind was blowing toward the south and drove the fire to the edge of the field where it was put out by the Oakley fire department. The combine was not damaged and no estimate of the loss was given.

Boise Man Faces Charge For Holdups

BOISE, Aug. 22—A 35-year-old unemployed car salesman today faced four federal bank robbery charges brought in connection with holdups of banks here and in California that netted less than $2,000.

Gayle Winston Carrio was indicted by a federal grand jury here on charges of twice robbing the Boise main office of the Alamo First National bank.

At the same time a grand jury in California returned an indictment charging him with robbing the Bank of America's main branch in San Jose on June 21 and again on July 2.

"Conviction on all four counts could lead to a maximum sentence of 160 years and fines totaling $100,000."

Carrio was previously held in custody in Boise on a warrant charging he robbed the Idaho First National bank Aug. 1.

But the grand jury indicted him also for holding up the same bank on July 23.

The indictment charged he got away the first time with $1,700 the second.

In the Aug. 1 incident, the holdup man was followed by a bank employee who was able to obtain the license number of his getaway car. The car was traced to Carrio who was arrested later that day at the home where the car was parked.

A bureau of investigation agent said the car was driven by Carrio's wife but no charges were filed against her.

The California indictment charges Carrio got $310 in the June 21 robbery and $400 in the other holdup.

He was preceded in death by one daughter.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Monday in the Albion LDS ward chapel, by Bishop Hilton Emery. Last rites will be held in the Albion cemetery. Burial may call at the Payne funeral home after noon and viewing and at the place of service one hour prior to the funeral.

AMERICAN MILITARY MEN in South Viet Nam—there are some 14,000 there as advisers to the nation's armed forces—are fighting this type of war against communist infiltration from the north. The Kennedy administration feels victory will come in the guerrilla war but it is worried that bad government in Saigon may reverse the tide. (AP wirephoto)

Kennedy Moves Cautiously In Jungle Battle in Viet Nam

The French departure left the United States as the major Western power with interests in the area and the means to stem the Red tide. Washington saw the lush farmlands and strategic peninsula location of South Viet Nam as an inviting target for Red China.

In 1954, the United States began a large-scale aid program that is on the way to totaling 25 billion dollars the first decade.

Over the first few years of independence, South Viet Nam prospered in relative peace.

Then in 1959 the communists began the large-scale, intensified effort to cripple the country which continues today.

Diem appealed for more U. S. aid in 1961 and Kennedy responded with the stepped-up U. S. program which now finds some 14,000 American military men on the scene.

But by this time Washington had had enough trouble with Diem in demand reform by the Saigon government in return for increased aid.

Among other things, Diem promised more representative rule, a crackdown on nepotism and corruption, better use of U. S. economic aid, new methods in military training and deployment and greater acceptance of

Laud Donovan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—James B. Donovan will be honored by the American Red Cross for his part in negotiating the release of 1,112 Bay of Pigs prisoners from Cuba. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Red Cross president, will present a special citation to the New York attorney.

U. S. authorities say they have been encouraged by the progress in the fight against the Red. But there has been increasing dismay with Diem's authoritarian methods.

The Buddhist opposition is regarded here as by far the most serious threat to Diem since he took power.

According to the prevailing U. S. assessment, the conflict started along religious lines but has quickly spread into politics with the Buddhist leaders serving as the rallying force for various opposition elements.

Diem, one of a Roman Catholic minority in a country where some 90 per cent of the people are Buddhist, denied religious discrimination.

Then came Wednesday's lightning assault by Diem troops, under a presidential declaration of martial law, storming pagodas and arresting monks by the hundreds.

The U. S. government issued a public condemnation of these repressive measures against the Vietnamese Buddhist leader, calling them a direct violation of the Diem pledge of peaceful reconciliation with the Buddhists.

But why didn't Kennedy take a positive step to topple Diem?

Smoke Barrier Is Fought by Stogie Puffer

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 22—(AP)—Sally Blain of Millis, Mass., cigar-smoking Phi Beta Kappa-O-Wellesley college, is seeking to have women admitted as members of the Cigar Smokers of America.

Mrs. Blain said Wednesday she will press a move for integration of men and women cigar smokers at the second annual convention of the national organization in Newport this week-end.

Her previous request to join the Boston-Hummer-a cigar-smoking men's group was turned down by men of that organization. She claims 1,000 women in this country now smoke cigars.

Blood Drawing Slated at Hailey

KEETCHUM, Aug. 22—Mrs. Barney Bell, newly appointed chairman of the Red Cross blood bank program, announces the bloodmobile will be here Tuesday.

A blood drawing will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. that day at the Holiday-Hut-in-Sun-Valley.

Quota for the drawing is 100 pints. Mrs. Bell urges all who can to give blood at this drawing.

Young Demo Resolutions Hit by Solon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—(AP)—Rep. Ralph Harding, D., Idaho, says he is confident the majority of Young Democrats disagree with the three controversial resolutions adopted by the Western States Conference of Young Democrats.

The Idaho congressman denounced the proposals as the product of the extreme left and urged party members to disavow them.

"It's the past," Harding said in a speech on the house floor, "I have not hesitated to denounce extremists on the right and point out the folly of withdrawing from the United Nations, abolishing the federal income tax or impeaching members of the supreme court."

"By the same token I feel I have an obligation to oppose extremism on the left and that is exactly what I consider these three resolutions to be."

The proposals urge resumption of diplomatic relations with Cuba, withdrawal of U. S. troops from South Viet Nam and the signing of a non-aggression pact between the United States and the Warsaw pact nations.

Oakley Reservoir Reading Given

OAKLEY, Aug. 22—Reading taken Aug. 18 at the Oakley reservoir shows there is 52.9 gauge height or 11,860 acre feet still in reserve compared with 50.1 gauge height or 18,836 acre feet in 1962.

The inflow reading was 13.6 second feet compared with 18.3 second feet in 1962. Delivered to date this year were 15,216 acre feet compared with 21,261 acre feet last year. Available for storage this year is 127-acre inches with 19.3 acre inches in 1962.

Idaho's Share

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—(AP)—Rep. Ralph Harding, D., Idaho, says Idaho colleges and universities would get slightly less than 1 million dollars under provisions of a 1.2-billion-dollar school-aid bill approved by the house of representatives.

The measure provides federal funds to assist public and private educational institutions in building classrooms, libraries and laboratories. Harding said Idaho's share would be $93,544.

"To qualify for these grant funds," he said, "Idaho's colleges could be required to furnish two-thirds of the cost of any building project the school plans to undertake."

HARDING TO VISIT
WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—(AP)—Rep. Ralph Harding, D., Idaho, says he will be in Idaho this week-end to take part in the annual wagon days at Ketchum Saturday morning.

Youths Sign For Classes In Virginia

FARMVILLE, Va., Aug. 22—(AP)—Negro children in Prince Edward county continued registering today for private segregated schools that will provide most of them their first formal education since 1959.

Officials of the Prince Edward Free School association estimated as many as 1,600 pupils might sign up for the classes to be administered by a biracial board of Virginia educators.

Through Wednesday, 856 pupils had registered. The schools will use public buildings, which were closed four years ago to evade a federal court's desegregation order.

At least one white, Richard D. Moss, 17, Farmville, was registered by his father, Dr. C. O. Gordon Moss, dean of Longwood college, a state-supported girls' school here.

You Can Grow House Plants, Says Agent

POWELL, Ind., Aug. 22—Houseplants watering of plants in the house is a sure way to make the leaves turn yellow or fall off.

Too much water affects plants because the water fills the pores in the soil and the air spaces in the soil and the plants suffer from lack of aeration, says Lawrence L. Hoyt, agent in charge of the houseplant section at the National Horticultural Exposition.

Some plants, including cacti, succulents, and snake plants, will die almost immediately if over-watered, says Hoyt. He suggested these methods to keep plants healthy:

- Water only when the soil is on the dry side. Scratch the surface of the soil with your finger. If it is dry to the touch, water is needed.
- Water thoroughly until the water drains from the pot drainage hole. Don't water again until the soil begins to dry.
- Don't put your plants on a watering schedule. Conditions in the home vary. Use one and a half inches of water, depending on the temperature and humidity of the house.

Campbell to Enroll at Idaho State

POCATELLO, Aug. 22 (P)—The Pocatello high school's foot, 5 inch high school all-American basketball star for two seasons last year, has decided to enroll at Idaho state university next month.

Campbell had said earlier he planned to attend Utah State. Campbell scored 192 points in basketball last year, and received offers from more than 20 schools. He was twice named outstanding player in the southern Idaho conference in 1953. Jim Nait, new head coach here, indicated he was happy with Campbell's change of mind. "I have always considered Terry to be one of our prime players since becoming coach last spring," he said. "He's a great basketball prospect. We feel his addition rounds out our new front line into a potentially outstanding unit."

"If Campbell can come along like we feel he can in his sophomore year when we play such well-known outside players as State, Seattle, Drake and Colorado State," he added.

WBA Bans Boxing Return Bout Clause

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 22 (P)—The World Boxing association voted Wednesday to suspend any member state approving a championship fight contract with a return-bout clause. The regulation was inspired by the contract between Lipton was forced to sign to get "Suppose Cassius Clay about beat Lipton," explained WBA Commissioner Abe Green. "It would be silly to say a return bout in a situation like that."

The WBA was told Wednesday that Federal control of the sport is a dream that will never be realized.

SUSPENSE JOCKEY CHICAGO, Aug. 22 (P)—Jockey Bill Shoemaker was suspended for five days Wednesday night for "careless riding" in the stretch of the third race Tuesday. It was his second such suspension of the 1953 season.

Free-for-All Spices Yankees' Twin Win

NE WYORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—Joe Pepitone drove in the deciding runs as the New York Yankees completed a doubleheader sweep of Cleveland by identical 3-1 scores Wednesday night and precipitated a free-for-all when he was hit by a pitch for the second time in the nightcap.

Tebbetts Just Throws at 300 Hitters

By The Associated Press
"When I played ball, the only guys we threw at were 300 hitters," Cleveland Manager Nippy Tebbetts said wryly. "High, the Yankees haven't got any."

Joe Pepitone is hitting .215. Tom Dillmore figures that's good enough to get thrown at. "Either way you look at it, for three minutes an explosive situation, rocked Yankee stadium Wednesday night at the tallest of the New York Yankees' doubleheader sweep over Cleveland by identical 3-1 scores."

Pepitone, who punched out four hits in the doubleheader, wound up throwing 'em around as he was hit by a pitch for the second time in the eighth inning of the second game. He was hit on the wrist by Barry Latham in the third, then nipped by Gary Bell. He started losing the mound and was restrained by Umpire Denny, who told Bell he was being fined $50 for throwing a bean ball.

A wild pitch broke out in the middle of the doubleheader and first, and second bases, with numerous players throwing punches and others trying to break up the batters. After about three minutes, order finally was restored. Pepitone was ejected for his part in the fight.

Lefty Brown, Cleveland shortstop, left the game after the scuffle. It was announced in the press box that he had been ejected during the fight. Pitches had been going over and behind batters all during the second game with Yankee starter Stan Williams also involved.

Williams was hit by a pitch from Cleveland's left fielder, Alvin Dark, in the third inning. Williams was hit in the head and was taken to the hospital. He is expected to be out for several days.

Attention is a primary component of intelligence, most especially in the case of concentration. Concentration may be defined as exclusive attention. You know well enough that if you give your entire mind attention to a task, and if you concentrate on that task you will perform it more efficiently, and more quickly, than if you allow your attention to wander.

Seriously speaking, there is no such thing as a casual task. At least not for more than short periods. Laboratory results would seem to place the top limit on casual attention at about 15 minutes, or, at the most, 30 minutes, or, at the most, 45 minutes, or, at the most, 1 hour. Beyond this length of time, attention must be brought to the task in one way or another by the process called "concentration."

Here is a test of your concentration. You are asked to concentrate a mass of numerical, factual, and general information on the main points. Since this is a speed test, if you are distracted by the estimating numerals it will affect your time, and so, show in your score.

A black and white photograph of a cylindrical can of A.D. dog food. The label features the letters 'A.D.' in a large, bold, serif font. To the right of the letters is a small, stylized illustration of a dog's head, possibly a bulldog or similar breed, looking forward. The can is shown from a slightly low angle, emphasizing its height.

Rupert Has No Solution On Licenses

RUPERT, Aug. 22 — City and state officials Wednesday were still without any solution to the liquor license problem after a session at the city office.

The possibility of a state license transfer by the state to the city, which would solve the problem of the city's liquor license, is being considered.

John Hirling, owner of the Hirling cafe, announced Monday that he is negotiating with the city and state officials for a liquor license transfer by the state to the city.

Both city and state officials agreed that probably the only way the current deadlock over the license can be solved is through a transfer or court test of the present law.

Warner Mills, state liquor official and members of the Rupert city council were in attendance at the meeting.

Mills explained his office's stand and said he is ready to accept the transfer of the license for the mix-up over the license. He stressed, however, that some non-transfer from the state city council would have to be planning a local ordinance probably would have to keep the situation from developing.

Mills said that the state office now has issued the license and can not revoke any of them without adequate reason to do so. He said that the state law allows a license to be held a year after year without ever putting it to a vote.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

You perform at your peak, you need the stimulation of a new environment, a new challenge, and you are your life promises, therefore, to be one in which travel is an integral part. Should it be, however, that such a life is not feasible for some reason, you will probably be able to gain the same stimulation through the development of a new career, though necessarily short-lived.

Old Hospital Will Be Used As Rest Home

RUPERT, Aug. 22 — The old hospital building, which has been vacant since January, 1961, when the move to the present building was made, has been leased by Mrs. Kathryn Quigley to be used as a rest home.

Mrs. Quigley will move into the building Saturday and work will begin to remodel the building to meet state specifications, which include an outside stairway.

She plans to live in the building and operate the rest home herself until the number of patients requires additional help. Present plans call for a 24-patient maximum.

The building, owned by Mrs. Robert Walk, was built by Dr. Leland Fraser and was operated by several people before Mrs. Minnie M. Haggard leased it from Ted Lipps.

Mrs. Haggard leased it for 10 years and purchased it from Ted Lipps in 1959 and operated it until 1962, when she sold it to Mrs. Walk, with whom she has been associated for a number of years.

Mrs. Walk operated the hospital until the county decided to operate a county hospital.

Mrs. Floyd Marsh led the group in singing. Devotion was given by Prayers Haggard, and the benediction by Ernest Tolley.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE: Newsmag shows the India-Pakistan border, which was the scene of fierce fighting in October, 1962, after a surprise Chinese attack. (Crosshatched areas are those in dispute). The war ended abruptly when China proclaimed a ceasefire and withdrew from its forward position. Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru now claims the Chinese are massing along the border in even greater strength. Nehru claims the Chinese are constructing new gun emplacements, air strips, storage dumps and roads and are laying underground telephone lines to support a possible renewed attack.

City officials have also issued three licenses and have no plans to revoke any of them.

With the present population of Minidoka county, only three licensees could be issued. Two establishments have both state and city licenses with two other places of business having a city license and the other a state license, but neither have both.

What Happened to Vyacheslav Molotov?

MOSCOW, Aug. 22 — A little man with aluminum gray eyes and a black mustache got out of a big car at Berlin's Reich Chancellery in 1940 and was whisked into an apparent group of Soviet officials. This honored guest was Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet foreign minister and right-hand man of Stalin.

Where is he today?

"On extremely rare occasions, a little man with aluminum gray eyes and a gray-white mustache strolls with his wife in a park, not noticed, not wanted, not to be seen."

That happens to those who lose out in the Soviet Union.

Molotov, 72, lost out in one of the most dramatic struggles of Soviet history. In 1957, four years after Stalin died, he made the mistake of trying to drive out of power a rising man named Nikita Khrushchev.

Molotov, who for over a century of a century was one of the big figures in shaping the government and foreign policy of the Soviet Union, was named Soviet ambassador to Mongolia. Later he transferred to Vienna as representative to an international committee dealing with peaceful uses of atomic energy.

It was a letdown for a man who had been a close adviser and confidant of the great, of the world—Khrushchev, Truman, Churchill, Ernest Bevin, Dulles, Gen. Marshall.

In 1961, when Khrushchev met President Kennedy in Vienna, there was a great lineup of Russians as the train came in from Moscow. At the head of the line were Khrushchev, the Soviet ambassador, and embassy personnel. Far down the line, among the junior staff, stood the strangely withered little man whose cold "yet" played a major role in driving Western nations into a defensive alliance against communism.

Khrushchev shook hands with Molotov, exchanged a few quiet words on a modestly built station platform, and went on.

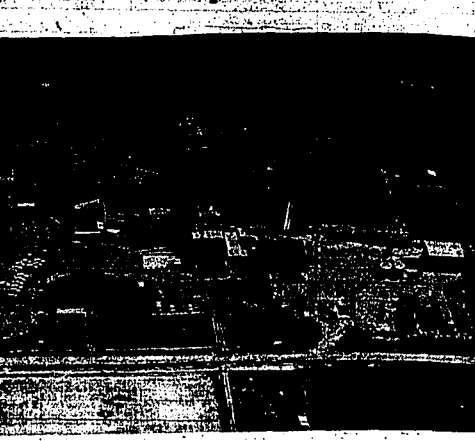

Four months later, Khrushchev fell, that old Stalin group took another come-over-in-a-revised attack on the "cult of personality." In the Congress of the Soviet party, Molotov and his associates were denounced again.

Scores of murders were attributed to them.

In November, a month after the congress closed, he returned to Moscow by train. Only the secret police, the daughter and Western newsmen met him. His daughter led him and Mrs. Molotov to a hotel.

He can't travel abroad, nor apparently even in the Soviet Union. It is not known what he does.

GOSH, HONEY! I KEEP CUTTING
INTO A BIG BONE ON ONE END OF THIS ROAST. PART OF THE MEAT IS PRETTY TOUGH, TOO!

Many markets in this area are selling rib roasts like the one being faced by the unhappy husband in the picture at the left. But there's no need for your husband to get upset when he carves a roast. Safeway's method of meat trimming removes waste parts and makes carving and eating a happy experience. You get meat that's easy to cook, a cinch to carve, and just wonderful to eat. You get more for your money in meat that is properly trimmed before weighing. All Safeway meats are close trimmed. See, at the right, the Safeway way with standing rib roasts.

ALWAYS CHECK TRIM AS WELL AS PRICE
Many markets that claim to trim their meats do only a token job. To give you full value, Safeway trims standing rib roast like this:

HEAVY CHINE BONE REMOVED
by Safeway (and replaced with a layer of fat, light in weight, to seal in meat juices) before we weigh your rib roast on the market scales. It gives you a roast that cooks and carves better.
